

Claim

What I claim as my invention is a collaborative, navigable, database driven format for broadcasting video on the internet, providing tools for people to upload video footage, images and text, engage in an interactive viewing experience, explore the database of video clips and create compound stories from new and existing video clips.

1003045001